

Eternal Moment

The stars are spilled across the heavens,
like gems on a velvet cloth.
And the moonlight haunts the meadow
on the wings of the dancing moth.

I see the water sparkle,
ripples shining in the light,
and I feel the deep enchantment
of the magic of the night.

Then I caress you and I kiss you,
while I press your body tight.

Suddenly the world stops spinning,
and time is brought to bay,
and this one single moment
is long as passing day!

And the angels sigh above us,
and envy our great love!
They long to share this taste of sweetness from above!

As we fall together gently,
entwined within the night,
I know this is a moment
I'll remember all my life.

The stars are spilled across the heavens,
like gems on a velvet cloth.
And the moonlight haunts the meadow
on the wings of the dancing moth.